Product Instructions

Unpack Boat on a Tarp or Similar Surface.

To inflate air chambers, insert pump hose into tube valve. While gently turning pump's hose and fitting clockwise, and pushing in, the nozzle will drop down and into place. Turn nozzle clockwise to lock in place.

Inflate Main Tubes from 50% to 100% before tucking in deflated air deck.

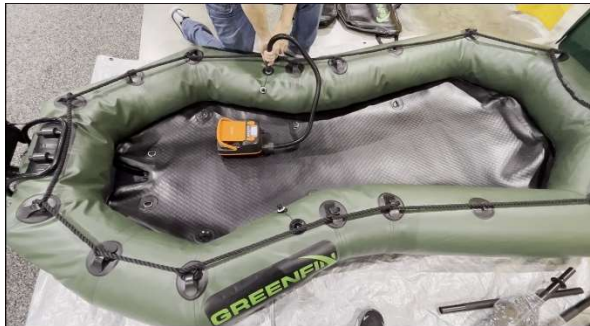

When using a SereneLife Air Pump, or pump with similar fitting, use the thinnest washer provided with the pump (slightly thicker than a USA quarter).

Note: Inserting the fitting and slightly inflating the chamber, before rotating clockwise to lock the fitting, can ease operations on fully deflated air chambers.

- Loosening the pump end of the hose before inserting pump fitting into air tube can simplify pump operations. Retighten hose at pump once inflation begins.

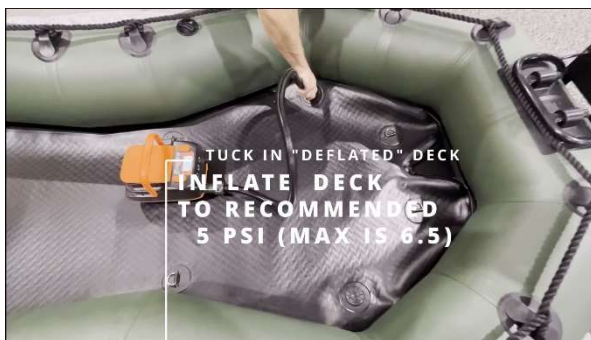

Insert Motor Mount when boat is $\frac{1}{2}$ inflated.
Do not attempt to insert motor mount in fully inflated boat.

Inflate Main Tubes to 2.5 PSI.

The maximum approximate pressure the foot pump can reach is 3 PSI.

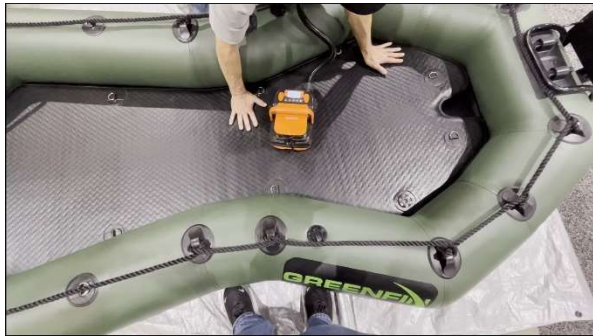

Do Not Overinflate Air Chambers.

Inflate Air Deck to recommended 5PSI to 5.5 PSI.

(Maximum PSI is 6.5).

Do not intentionally trigger the air deck's pressure relief valve, as repeated triggering could damage the relief valve. (It should not be used as a pressure gauge for your air deck).

Tuck in Air Deck edges as it is inflated.

Insert rudder assembly, placing bungees from the top-down, behind motor mount cross bar, then around rudder bracket.

Insert Bungee chords from top-down, above motor mount cross bar and around rudder bracket.

Inflate seat and backrest. Loop Velcro strap to D-ring and lay strap on Air Deck. Place backrest on top of strap.

Insert the other half of Velcro strap through D-ring on backrest. From behind the backrest, connect the buckle of the two Velcro straps and pull straps tight.

(Another view) Connect one piece of the Velcro strap to the D-ring on the seat. Run the strap under the backrest. Attach the second piece of Velcro strap to center D-ring on backrest. Snap the buckles together behind the backrest and pull tight.

When operating your boat with a motor, best performance is achieved when the front seat and backrest are positioned near the middle portion of the air deck. Too far forward in the boat will make your boat front-heavy in waves.

Folding your F-8R and Air deck

Folding your F-8R and Air deck

Don't drag your boat on rough surfaces, such as concrete, pavement or gravel.

It is recommended that you store the air deck separately, or atop the storage bag (straps are provided on the bag for that purpose). With the air deck stored separately, the F-8R is easier to move, load and unload, it prevents compressing the material during long term storage.
